A GLOBAL PRESENCE

DOING GOOD WITH WOOD

SUSTAINABILITY

Every time UHS sells a chair or table we give back to the planet by supporting the planting of a tree. Our global charity partner supports tree growing to empower third world countries by moving away from destructive farming techniques to a forest garden system.

UHS were awarded the GREENER PATH AWARD for achieving "Zero Waste to Landfill" during the year. This award is in recognition of exceptional environmental performance in our waste and recycling operation.

RAW WORKSHOP

We're creating social hours with RAW Workshop through wood recycling services.

Social hours includes skills, training, employment, positive activity and life-skills. This reduces isolation, raises self-esteem, lowers the call on blue-light and NHS services, combats depression/mental health illness and gives people somewhere of which they are proud to be a part.

CHOOSING YOUR TABLE SIZE

SQUARE

The most common shape of table in a restaurant or cafe, typically 700sq or 800sq for seating 2 people comfortably at either end. You'll also get the greatest surface area with a square table, so can use any remaining space for flowers, candles or an extra bottle of wine.

RECTANGULAR

A flexible option for co-working or dining in large numbers, as you can sit people along the sides of the table and at each end. Rectangular tables work best when used with single or twin pedestal bases, as you can easily slide in/out without corner legs getting in the way.

ROUND

Great for getting everyone involved in the conversation... and for waiting staff who can walk around them with ease and don't have to lift plates over any corners. Round tables usually feature near the front of the restaurant, so customers have space to walk past them to get to the tables at the back.

As a general rule the grid below demonstrates what length and width is required for the displayed seating. Recommended seating guides for all tables are based on a single pedestal table, except 1200x700mm which is twin pedestal. This is to be used as a guide only.

The number of chairs that you can fit around the table depends on whether the chairs are tucked in or out.

As quoted on their website The Ned is 'A historic building reborn in the city' An iconic space that has been meticulously refurbished to an extremely high standard. From its history as a Midland Bank storing the jewels and wealth it is now a 5 star hotel opening its doors to the exclusive members to spend a night or two, enjoy one of the nine restaurants, hold a business event or get pampered in the spa.

UHS Group, a leading supplier of design led furniture, were chosen to supply a number of products from barstools, seating, upholstered products and rooftop external furniture. These were exclusively designed for this flagship project using special finishes, specific fabrics and leathers.

'We were pleased to be part of this fantastic project and look forward to paying a visit, a great location and great idea that will be a part of the London social scene no doubt!'
